

LebaneseUnderground

www.LebaneseUnderground.com

PRESS RELEASE

LUmi, Scrambled Eggs, Rayess_Bek and Jade are playing at la Fleche d'Or, Paris, the 9th of July.

One year after the outbreak of the July war, four of the best bands on the Lebanese Underground Scene come together for an extravaganza of rock, punk, electronic and rap at Paris' favorite Indie venue la Fleche D'Or.

LUmi:

The youngest and most exciting band on the Lebanese scene, LUmi embodies the glamour and chaotic/creative dynamic of Beirut. LUmi released their first album (short length) in May 2007 breaking new grounds on the Lebanese electronic scene.

www.myspace.com/lumisounds

Scrambled Eggs:

Scrambled eggs came together as a musical entity in Beirut in 1998. After riding the Grunge wave for a while, the boys have embraced a whole new palette of sounds and created their own distinctive sound on this album, a fine mesh of guitars and noises, pushing to the extreme the search for harmony in chaos. Scrambled Eggs latest CD is "Happy together Filthy forever", released in December 2006.

www.myspace.com/scrambledeggslebanon

Rayess_Bek:

Rayess_Bek is one of two rappers of AKS'SER that set the path for the arab rap movement in the middle-east since they emerged in 1996. Dividing his time between Paris and Beirut, Rayess_Bek, his music is inspired by slam, rap, raggea and oriental jazz fusion.

www.myspace.com/rayessbek

Jade:

If you live in Beirut, you probably know Jade as the DJ from The Basement. Or from his radio show, or his studio, or the rock band Blend, or..or..or... One the most respected DJs in Beirut, Jade is always exploring new frontiers and opportunities.

www.myspace.com/jadesounds

Contact:

Zeid Hamdan +961 856 387 +33 6 99 528 562 zeid@soapkills.com

Solveig Malvik +961 70902059 solveig@lebaneseunderground.com

